

APPENDIX 2 EIGHTEENTH CENTURY LICENSEES

We have four surviving sets of lists of licensees from eighteenth century Coventry. There are two sequences of Petty Sessions records, from 1745 to 1752 and from 1776 to 1782. These are simple lists of personal names, accompanied by an index providing a location for each name, usually a ward but occasionally a street or other place name. The third list is one compiled by Alderman Hewitt in 1756 which gives 22 licensed premises with their location and licensee's name, the first extant list giving such details. Lastly, Alderman Hewitt compiled another list of 27 personal names and streets in 1758. In his writings Hewitt also gives four licensees' names and public houses in 1759.

I have combined all these sources to give a list of known licensees in the eighteenth century. In this list a hyphen (-), as in the first entry, 'John Abbott(s) Spon Street 1745-1751', means that John Abbot(s) appears in each Petty Sessions list between 1745 and 1751 inclusive. Where a comma (,) is used, as in 'Saml Bartlam Much Park Street 1748, 1750-1752', this means that Samuel Bartlam appears in the Petty Sessions lists in 1748 and from 1750 to 1752 inclusive, but not in 1749. There may be a number of reasons for such omissions -

1. Scribal error. The lists are handwritten and they date to before standardised spellings. The absence of a name in a given year may just be a reflection of the inaccuracy of the records.
2. The enforcement of licensing was not consistent. Small alehouses in particular may have operated without a license in some years.
3. Also in the case of smaller houses they may have drifted into and out of the trade from year to year
4. In the case of the poorer citizens, the authorities may at times have turned a blind eye to small scale, occasional selling of alcohol if it kept people off the poor rates.

Where a dash (/) or brackets are used in the location, either a person has been recorded at two locations but it is impossible to tell when they moved from one to the other; or both locations are suspected of referring to the same property.

I have tried in the list below to indicate the various spelling of people's names or locations. Sow is the modern day Walsgrave on Sowe. John Par is St John's Parish. It will be seen that in the case of some family names, such as all the Robert Biggs, John Biggs and Jonathan Biggs, it has been difficult to determine who was who!
